NICOSIA, Jan 8, (AP): Syria has persuaded Iran to delay its longanticipated winter offensive against Iraq and halt attacks on Kuwait in a bid to cool rising tension in the Gulf, Arab diplomatic sources reported yes-

The Syrian initiative, launched at the urging of Saudi Arabia, was aimed at buying time for a dialogue between Tehran and the six-member GCC aimed at finding a settlement to end the Gulf war.

There was no clear word from Tehran on what Syrian envoys have been able to negotiate in their mediation effort that began in late December.

But Gulf-based diplomats and officials of the GCC told the Associated Press that Iran has been making 'favourable gestures.' They said the Iranians have indicated their willingness to open a dialogue and hold back

Diplomatic sources in Damascus, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Saudi Arabia and the other GCC states have persuaded Iraq to curb its air strikes on Iranian tankers in the Gulf in recent days.

Iran arms scandal still haunts Bush

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan 8. (Agencies): The Iran arms scandal returned to haunt Vice-President George Bush on the eve of a campaign debate in Iowa crucial to his campaign to secure the Republican Party's nomination for President.

Bush's rivals ganged up on him, seizing on a Washington Post report saying he was more deeply involved in the unpopular arms deal than he has admitted. The allegations came before today's televised debate between six Republican Party hopefuls. Opinion polls put Bush well ahead of his opponents nationally. But he trails Senate Republican leader Robert Dole in the Midwestern state of Iowa, which on February eight holds its Berlin Wall must come mistakes from their leaders. "We're going to have to hope down: Chirac

PARIS, Jan 8, (UPI): French Prime Minister Jacques Chirac told visiting East German leader Erich Honecker today that he hoped to see the Berlin Wall toppled like the "useless and ridiculous" fortifications that once surrounded Europe's medieval cities but became obsolete.

Chirac, addressing Honecker at Paris City Hall in his capacity of mayor, said Berlin was the ultimate symbol of European division.

"The wall that tears it in half, and which I hope will fall one day like the useless and ridiculous enclosures of the walled cities of the past, is a reminder that the division of our continent is not simply a concept, but a painful reality," Chirac said. Honecker, the man who prepared the construction of the Berlin Wall in 1961, did not respond to the comment. He urged further nuclear arms cuts and peaceful cooperation in the European home we share."

Honecker met earlier with Foreign Minister Jean-Bernard Raimond after talks with President Mitterrand yesterday upon his arrival.

Frank During their 90-minute conversation at the Presidential Elysee Palace, the French President told Honecker that cuts in strategic nuclear arms had to come before those in shortrange weapons.

Spokesman Wolfgang Mayer of the East German Foreign Ministry characterised the first round of talks as "frank and constructive."

Before his session with Chirac. Honecker placed a wreath of flowers on the grave of the unknown French soldier beneath the Arc de Triomphe, at the head of the Champs-Élysees. The avenue was decked with yellow-red-andblack East German flags in honour of his state visit.

NICOSIA, Jan 8, (AP): Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini on Thursday accused President Ali Khamenei of trying to go too far in limiting the power of government in the Islamic Republic.

The rare personal criticism was contained in a letter from Khomeini published in Tehran, the official Islamic Republic

News Agency reported.
Parliament Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani, a key contender for power in a post-Khomeini Iran, welcomed the letter and berated anyone who might deviate from the 87-year-old patriarch's line. The developments appeared to signal a step-up in the struggle over who will rule Iran after Khomeini, reportedly ailing,

Lebanon protests to UN over Israeli raids

UNITED NATIONS, Jan 8, (Reuter): Lebanon has protested to the United Nations over lsraeli air attacks against targets in southern Lebanon last Saturday and reserved the right to call for a meeting of the Security Council.

In a letter dated Jan 5 and published on Thursday, Lebanese UN representative Rashid Fakhoury told Secretary Gen-eral Javier Perez de Cuellar that the Israeli Air Force "bombed some blocks of flats near Sidon," killing seven members of a Palestinian family.

The Soviet prerequisite for leaving Afghanistan is a US obligation to stop supplying the Afghan guerrillas who have bases in Pakistan. Pakistan also houses 3.5 million Afghan refugees, who have fled the fighting now in its eighth year.

Alexeyev said that the key now to ending the eight-year involvement of the estimated 115,000 Soviet troops in the guerrilla war was the UN-sponsored talks between Afghanistan and Pakistan in Geneva.

Rival students clash in Chittagong Teachers join anti-Ershad ranks

DHAKA, Jan 8, (AP): More than 400 teachers participated in an anti-government demonstration Thursday to demand the resignation of President Hossain

Mohammad Ershad. The teachers marched from Dhaka University campus to the nearby Martyrs Memorial, shouting "Ershad must quit" and "no polls under the present government," witnesses said.

On Wednesday night, pro- and anti-government students clashed at Chittagong University, about 210 kilometres southeast of Dhaka. Bombs were hurled and shots were fired, police said.

Riot police guarding the university did not intervene even though all processions and rallies are banned under a government rule imposed on Nov 27. The teachers passed a resolution at a meeting before the march that called for Ershad to quit and turn over power to a caretaker government that would hold elections.

"The academic atmosphere in the country has been destroyed by the frequent closure of educational institutions by the government" said Quamruz Zaman, president of the nationwide Bangladesh Teachers

Hena Das, general secretary of the association, said that "teachers have been forced to join the movement for restoration of democracy for the sake of bringing back an academic atmos-

The clashes between students at Chittagong University left 14 people injured. Police said that a group of students, armed with bombs and revolvers, tried to take over a residential hall occupied by another group.

A professor contacted by telephone said the students trying to take over the hall were Ershad supporters and had lived in the building until last year. They were forced out by supporters of Jamaat-e-Islami, a Muslim fundamentalist organisation, said the professor.

Strikes and protests by Jamaat-e-Islami and other opposition parties have rocked Chittagong, Dhaka and other universities in an effort to force the resignation of Ershad. Opposition parties charge his government with corruption, inefficiency and failure to controi the economy.

S.Korean ur Police raid iversity

SEOUL, Jan 8, (AP): About 1,500 riot police stormed Chosun University in the southwestern' city of Kwangju today, ending a 113-day protest by students demanding the dismissal of the school administration.

More than 200 students set fire and hurled firebombs at police in green combat fatigues and black steel helmets who smashed doors and climbed ladders into buildings in the dawn raid.

Classes had been suspended at the school since September because of the protest by a small group of radical students demanding the removal of the school president and members of his family from the administration. Three students were injured, including one who jumped from the fifth floor of the main building as police closed in. The student landed on one of the mattresses that police had placed on the ground as a precaution against suicide, which is a traditional form of protest in

Arrest

Police arrested about 120 students. Many protesters fled as riot squads gained control of the campus, while others tried to hold police off by building barricades with desks and chairs.

Local journalists who watched the four-hour operation said police did not use tear gas or water cannons. They said police were relatively restrained in taking control of the campus.

The main problem came when students set fire to the main administration building. Firefighters brought the blaze under control after two hours Dissident students started the campus occupation to demand the resignation of Park Chul Woong, the private university's president and founder. The students accused Park of being a despot at the school, which has an enrollment of 15,000.

Iranian 'agent' held in Egypt

CAIRO, Jan 8, (AP): Security authorities have arrested an alleged Iranian agent who was recruiting Egyptians and forming an organisation to spread the 'Iranian Revolution" in Egypt, newspapers said today.

In identical statements apparently issued by the Interior Ministry, daily newspapers said the Iranian agent had been receiving his orders from Mahmoud Mohtadi, Iran's charge d'affaires to Cairo who was expelled last May after Egypt severed all diplomatic ties with Tehran.

Al Ahram, Al Akhbar and Al Gomhuriya said security authorities had "recently arrested an agent of Iranian intelligence who was working on forming an organisation including Egyptian

The brief statement said the investigations showed this was an anti-government organisation and that "Iran was still intensifying its efforts to export the Iranian revolution to the region.

Last May, the Foreign Ministry expelled the two Iranian diplomats posted in Cairo, including Mohtadi, and withdrew its lone Egyptian diplomat in Tehran.

At the time, security sources said the two Iranian officials were strongly suspected of maintaining contacts with Egyptian Muslim extremists opposed to President Hosni Mubarak.

News reports also said that security authorities had smashed an Iranian-backed extremist religious organisation and arrested 37 members.

KUWAIT'S courage and determination not to yield to Iranian threats were praised by the chairman of the French-Arab Association, Yves Genna.

He reiterated the French support of Security Council Resolution No. 598, and said France's views were identical to Kuwait's on issues related to the Gulf war.

The real solution lay in bringing an end to this war, and this required concerted Arab and international efforts. France considers Iran stubborn for not complying with Resolution No. 598.

Genna said he was convinced that the end of the war would be brought about if Arab and Islamic countries stepped up pressure against Iran.

He confirmed that the Franco Arab Association was keen on Arab solidarity and expressed satisfaction over the resolutions adopted at the Arab summit in Riyadh.

Turning to the situation in the occupied territories, Genna said he was not surprised at the harsh measures taken by Israel's occupation authorities against Palestinians, but surprised by the magnitude of the Palestinian

He repeated what General Charles de Gaulle said after the 1967 Middle East war, namely that Israel could not continue its occupation and a day would come when it would have to face a general uprising. He said that France supported the Palestinian right to self determination as well as their right to set up an independent state on their soil.

Discrimination

Answering a question about reports of racial discrimination against Arabs in France, Gena said discrimination occurred all over the world, and there were reservations in French public opinion about the enormous presence of Arabs in France. He said two committees had been set up to convince French society to accept the Arab community and to find ways to protect Arab civilisation and the Islamic character. He added that feelings of discrmination did not run high among French and Arab youth in France.

He expressed appreciation at the setting up of the Arab Institute in France, saying it would boost Arab-French relations.

He said his visit was meant to make French policy clear to Arab states so that there could be better understanding between the two sides.

HH the Crown Prince and Prime Minister, Sheikh Saad Al Abdullah Al Sabah received a cable from the chaliman of the Kuwait Teachers Society thanking Sheikh Saad for his participation in the celebrations marking the 25th anniversary of the society.

In his cable, the chairman of the society, Ornar Ibrahim Al Ghair, said that the address of Sheikh Saad to the teachers included instructions and guidance and support to the teachers' just causes and demands.

Sheikh Saad sent a reply cable to the chairman of the society thanking him for the good feelings and expressing appreciation for the sincere efforts which the society has exerted and is still exerting In service of the Kuwaiti society and country.

Sheikh Soad also lauded the positive contribution in developing Kuwait's educational progress, hoping that the society will succeed in carrying out its noble message.

Campaign to keep desert clean

Awadi, Kuwait's Public Health Minister and chairman of the Environmental Protection Council patronises a campaign today to protect the desert environment from pollution affecting the animal and plant life of the desert.

The Ministry of Interior and members of the environmental council will also participate in the campaign with information distribution on how to keep the desert clean. During the camping season much damage is done by motorcycles and cars driving over plants and destroying the homes of wildlife.

Kuwait Municipality will have sanitation vehicles and garbage trucks regularly at camping areas to collect garbage and clean camp sites. The Health Ministry will have medical services available for campers and the Municipality will have fire fighting vehicles in camping areas.

Meanwhile, Dr Mustafa

Sadeq, the superintendent of first aid training at Kuwait's Red Crescent Society, said that there are more than one thousand different types of flying and crawling insects, many of which are dangerous to children and At a symposium organised by the Kuwaiti Medical Society, Sadeq urged campers to be especially careful of insect bites and knowledgeable of first aid treatment of insect bites. He added that one particular desert spider, black or brown in colour, was quite poisonous, causing a burning sensation which contin-ues from 12-14 hours. He said that the sting of this spider might be accompanied by swelling and redness and that victims feel hot and experience an increase in blood pressure. The yellow spider sting causes skin ulcerations and can take weeks before the victim is free of the sting's effects, Dr Sadeq said. adding that the scorpion was also very dangerous and its sting could prove fatal to children.

Iragis mark anniversary

THE 67th anniversary of the Iraqi Army was celebrated on Thursday with a rally at the Iraqi embassy in Kuwait.

In the opening speech, the Iraqi Ambassador to Kuwait Asem Yaqoob Yousef reviewed the Iraqi Army's victories since its establishment on Jan 6, 1921. He said that the Iraqi Army, under the wise leadership of President Saddam Hussein, had.

managed to thwart all enemy attacks and was determined to defeat the enemy forces regardless of the sacrifices suffered.

Congratulations were cabled to Iraqi President Saddam Hussein and members of the Army and Armed Forces in Iraq, pledging further support and determination to see the war through until the aggressors were Bishara to visit Security Council member states

A PRESS report said yesterday that Secretary General of the Gulf Cooperation-Council Abdullah Bishara will shortly visit the permanent members of the United Nations Security Council. Quoting "informed sources," the report, in a Kuwaiti news-paper said Bishara's tour seeks to renew efforts aimed at finding an end to the Iran-Iraq war based on Security Council resolution 598. The GCC Secretary-General will be accompanied by Saudi Foreign Minister Saud Al Faisal and other high ranking officials from the six GCC states, the report said.

The report coincides with a tour presently being made by Syrian Vice-President Abdul-halim Khaddam to the Gulf countries. Reports circulating here said the Syrian official is carrying letters to the heads of states in the Gulf concerning a possible breakthrough toward peace in the region. Shuttled

Furthermore, Syrian Foreign Minister Farouk Al Shara shuttled back and forth between Tehran and Riyadh last month reportedly in an attempt to mediate between Tehran and the Gulf countries on the situation in

UN pressure on Gulf states to take in Afghan refugees

MUSCAT, Jan 8, (AP): Gulf states are being pressed to take in Afghan refugees living in overcr-owded Pakistan and Iranian camps, a UN official was quoted yesterday as saying. Abder-Razak Essaied, Middle East representative for the UN High Commissioner for Refugees, told the Oman daily Observer the Gulf states were being approached in the hope they would be willing to help fellow Muslims from neighbouring countries. "But we haven't yet got the impression they are willing to take them," he said. "We will continue efforts."

Three million refugees are living in Pakistan, mainly in the Peshawar area, and another two million are in eastern Iran, he said. They account for a major portion of UNHCR's budget. Essaied, a Tunisian, said the UNHCR has discussed with member states of the Gulf Cooperation Council the issue of their complying with the 1951 UNHCR convention on refugees. World-wide signatories numbered 103, with only North Yemen from the Arabian peninsula a signatory, he said.

Examine The GCC groups Oman with Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Qatar, Bahrain and the United Arab Emirates. Essaied said he was assured by GCC foreign ministers that the matter was under consideration.

Bahrain and Kuwait have referred the issue to their justice ministries to examine the legal implications, he said.

The Gulf states have also been urged to give employment to . qualified refugees with benefits on a par with those enjoyed by nationals, he said.

We have a list of trained professionals such as doctors and engineers whom they could utilise," Essaied added.

Instances He said there were many instances when the GCC states had cooperated with UNHCR in taking in refugees on basis of individual cases.

During the past four months, 100 Iranian refugees had been admitted, he noted, but some had been resettled outside the region. A small group arrived in Dubai last week. Essaied said their plight had been so publicised it brought in offers of sponsorship from the United States. He declined to give details.

On Dec 29, a group of eight Iranian refugees were deported by Yugoslav authorities and were flown back to Dubai. The group, who screamed and threatened suicide, were trying to go to Canada. The Canadians refused to accept them because they had forged visas.

Boatful of refugees in Switzerland

By Doelf Duttweiler

BASLE, Switzerland, (Reuter): Right-wing politicians who claim Switzerland is overcrowded with foreigners and wouldbe refugees have long used the rallying cry: "The boat is full". Now, there really is a refugee

Switzerland is putting the final touches to a former cruise ship anchored in the River Rhine which will house would-be refugees when a controversial change in asylum law comes into effect this month. The 144-berth "Ursula" is one of four sites in the country where asylum seekers will be interned while they await the initial processing of their applications for residence. 'Around 80 refugees will be housed for a maximum of five days or so on the ship." says Peter Arbenz, the government's top official for refugee questions. "In this ship we will ask the asylum seekers how they came into our country and then decide whether Switzerland has a long tradition of welcoming refugees and has maintained for decades a liberal policy on granting political asylum.

Foreigners After World War Two, most applicants came from East European countries, easily won refugee status and quickly integrated themselves into Swiss

But foreigners now make up about 15 per cent of the 6.5 million population, and in some cities the proportion is as high as one-third. The wave of people seeking asylum over the last five years has come overwhelmingly from countries including Chile, Zaire and Sri Lanka, as well as an increasing number from Turkey. The authorities believe that many come not for political reasons but for economic ones -unemployment at home and a chance to make good money in

That led to a swelling of public opinion against asylum-seekers - reflected in a two-to-one vote in a public referendum to back the new asylum law last April. Opponents of the law see racism as an underlying reason for the strong public reaction. The legislation has pushed

Switzerland into a public slanging match with refugee authorities at the United Nations since publication of details and new visa regulations last month. Jean-Pierre Hocke, the UN Commissioner for Refugees, himself, a Swiss, proclaimed himself "deeply concerned" about the moves, and formally asked the Swiss government to reconsider. Justice Minister Elisabeth Kopp retorted by accusing him of unjustified interference in Swiss affairs. Switzerland, like many other Western European countries, has long been worried by a sharp increase in refugees in recent years, many of them from Third World countries. Officials say they received 10,000 new asylum requests by the end of last year, the highest annual figure since the end of World War Two. At the end of August, the latest month for which figures are available, the backlog of unprocessed requests had reached near 22,000. Under the new law, would-be refugees are required to enter the country at 27 specific designated places only and to register their claim for asylum immediately. Those who fail to do so risk immediate deportation and some will simply be turned back at the border. Those making it through the border will be sent to the internment centres where they will be fingerprinted and documented in one of 23 languages.

Even then, they are not guaranteed they can stay here. So-called "asylum-tourists," those who come to Switzerland from neighbouring countries, will be sent back, as will others who fail to satisfy the new tough requirements. After a few days' stay the remainder will then be allotted to the various cantons where they will await a final decision on their

In addition, nationals of a variety of Third World countries now face stiffer visa restrictions designed to curb the flow of foreigners into the country. Asked how much housing asylum-seekers on board the Ursula would cost Swiss taxpayers, Arbenz declined to answer directly. "The ship is more expensive than renting an air-raid shelter, but we couldn't bring ourselves to force them to live underground. It is, however, cheaper than a hotel," he said.

A real dynamite

Switzerland.

STOCKHOLM, (Reuter): A little-known Swedish businessman played a vital role in the Gulf war by selling Iran huge amounts of ammunition and explosives. according to Swedish customs officials and arms trade experts.

Arms trader Karl-Erik Schmitz started to emerge from the shadows early in 1985 after customs officers raided his company Scandinavian Commodity in Malmo, southern Sweden. The material they seized in that and two subsequent raids around 18,000 documents in all literally involved dynamite.

We uncovered a network that had shipped millions of dollars worth of explosives, munitions and artillery components from Israel, South Africa and half a dozen Western European countries to Iran," said a senior customs officer who worked on the around 1,600 pages of the material seized in the raids. They provide a unique insight into the murky world of the international arms trade.

Despite the raids, Schmitz kept on selling explosives to Iran right through 1985 and well into 1986, the documents show. Arms trade experts estimate the value of his sales to Iran at around $600 million and say his efforts were an important factor in sustaining Tehran in its war against Iraq.

According to Aaron Karp, a researcher at the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute (Sipri) who monitors the international arms trade. Iran is about 50 per cent self-sufficient in small arms ammunition, grenades, mortar bombs and artillery shells.

"Schmitz helped them make up the other half," he said.

Karp said Schmitz was able to operate so freely because European governments were unprepared for the development of a huge black market in explosives as a result of the Gulf

Before this, there was no real regulation of the powder trade. Nobody wanted hundreds of millions of tons of the stuff until the Iran-Iraq war created the market," he said, Swedish customs sent a detailed report of their findings to their counterparts in Finland. Norway, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Austria and Italy, setting off or contributing to investigations in those countries.

The documents consist of contracts, orders,invoices, bills of lading, shipping schedules, let-ters of credit with banks in Switzerland and London and countless telexes between Schmitz and his contacts in Tehran and all over Europe.

Sometimes, they make amusng reading. On Sept 19, 1985, Schmitz sent a telex to the Iranian National Defence Industries Organisation in Tehran, saying: 'We would like to inform you that we are just now breaking all existing laws and regulations to make it possible to supply the goods to your organisation."

In a telephone interview, Schmitz told Reuters that the telex was an attempt to make his buyers understand the difficulties he was facing and not an admission of guilt.

In any case, he said. European governments were well aware of his activities but preferred to close their eyes to them.

There is a factory in every country producing explosives all the time. Who buys them? Only countries at war like Iran.

"Everyone kept this secret until the Swedish customs went like an elephant in a procelain shop and destroyed it," he said.

Ligachev's higher profile

Lack of enthusiasm for high speed change

By Paul Quinn-Judge MOSCOW: An apparent slowdown in the tempo of Soviet reform has been accompanied by the growth in visibility of Yegor Ligachev, the cautious secondranking member of the ruling

Communist Party Politburo. Recent statements in the news media also indicate concern by some leaders at what they consider to be the negative side effects of glasnost (openness). These statements, coupled with Ligachev's higher profile, suggest that supporters of radical reform are facing opposition from two directions. Resistance to reform has previously been associated largely with officials and others whose comfortable life style would be destroyed by policies of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev. Now it seems clear that some more conservative party leaders are worried that radical

Many Soviet observers feel that Ligachev favours slower and less radical change, and not a simple return to the past. Radical reformers feel the difference is immaterial: they stress that the country needs a fast and thoroughgoing transformation, not partial improvements.

Ligachev is apparently coordinating the next plenum (due early this year) of the party Central Committee, which is scheduled to discuss education. Such meetings discuss policy, make personnel changes when necessary, and under Gorbachev have played a significant role in gaining acceptance for structural

The timing of Ligachev's revelation, however- three days before the start of the Washington summit - was viewed by some observers as a clear effort to undercut Gorbachev before the summit.

Perhaps most disturbing for supporters of radical change is the fact that leaders of some of the country's major institutions — the KGB and the armed forces - have recently expressed their lack of enthusiasm for high-

During a meeting with writers, Yazov referred favourably to an article in the party daily Pravda by three prominent writers -

Usually well-informed Soviet sources say that performances by the more controversial rock groups in Moscow have virtually ceased.

The slowdown in discussion of reforms seems, paradoxically enough, to have followed close on the heels of what seemed at the time a breakthrough for radical reform - the June Central Committee plenum. During that meeting, Gorbachev expressed unhappiness at the slowness of change and stressed a need for a more rapid pace.

The plenum approved a law on state enterprises that came into effect Jan 1; it is intended to give industrial enterprises more administrative and financial freedom of action. Some radical reformers complain that the law is both complicated and flawed. The June meeting also endorsed a series of economic management reforms. Discussion of the planned reforms since then has been surprisingly muted.

Palestinians confronting Israelis

An indigenous uprising

By Joseph C. Harsch OCCUPIED JERUSALEM: The number killed so far in the latest wave of Arab unrest in the Middle East is not in itself as important as the fact that this movement has evidently been self-generated inside the occupied territories and among the members of the younger gen-

In the past most acts of Arab resistance against Israel have come from outside, or in response to outside stimulus. The Arab activists were primarily among the refugees who left Israel and Israel's occupied territories during the five Arab-Israel wars. They were mostly men of the older generation.

This time the Arabs on the outside have apparently had nothing to do with the 13 days of demonstrations and rioting which since Dec 9 have broken the peace, first in the Gaza Strip, and then in various other places on the West Bank, including Jerusalem itself. Israel says that 27 Arab youths were killed. The Arabs say the number is at least 76. This occurred during riots in which waves of schoolboys and girls have attacked Israeli police and soldiers, using stones as their main weapon. Consciously or unconsciously they are engaged in a first serious and mass effort to take control of the streets away from the Israeli police. . They will lose this battle.

Israeli military power is domin-ant in all the territories under

Israeli rule. But this is not a last gasp of a dying movement. It is the opening battle in a new movement, the movement of the young Arabs who have lived their entire lives under Israeli

Until now the Arabs of the occupied territories and of Israel itself have been largely passive bystanders in the war against Israel waged by the various factions of the Palestine Liberation Organisation operating from outside. The Arabs living inside the lines of the Israeli Army have until now looked for their ultimate liberation to come through diplomacy. Many of them have been waiting since 1948, when Israel came into existence. Many more have been waiting since 1967, when Israel took the West Bank, Gaza, and the Golan Heights. For the first group the waiting has lasted 40 years; for the second group, 20

Their hopes have been nourished by the prospect held forth ever since the 1967 war by resolutions of the United Nations calling for Israeli withdrawal for 'occupied territories." These resolutions are supported by virtually the entire world. Israel itself voted for the first one, UN Resolution 242. It has repeatedly been interpreted by the United States as requiring the withdrawal of Israeli forces from most of the occupied territories, subject to minor modification of the pre-1967 boundaries.

For many years the Arabs trusted the US to use its influence to bring compliance with UN resolution 242. President Jimmy Carter tried for this during the Camp David meetings with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. The Camp David agreement promised the Arabs local selfgovernment. But that was eight years ago. Never since has the Reagan administration applied pressure on Israel to carry out its obliga-tions under Camp David. Hope deferred for 20 years grows cold. The schoolchildren who daily threw the stones at Israeli soldiers during protests are exactly that, schoolchildren. They have lived their entire conscious lives under Israeli occupation. They have grown up in a community in which their parents have been a virtual slave population, the men and women who do the lowliest work at the lowliest wages in Israel or for Israelis. They are the last hired and the first fired. They are voteless. Their children are in revolt at the prospect of living their own lives as their parents have led theirs. This new generation of Arabs. will continue to rebel against the condition to which their parents have submitted. Hope has run, out. The Arabs on the outside are no match for the Israeli Army. The nations on the outside have done nothing effective for 20 years to activate UN resolution 242. The Arabs of the occupied territories see no hope now except from their own actions.

Vital source of news on events in occupied areas

By Sergel Shargorodsky

OCCUPIED JERUSALEM (AP): A small office featuring a portrait of Che Guevara and pictures of black slaves driven by white masters has become a vital source of news on fast-breaking events in remote occupied West Bank villages and Gaza refugee camps.

A voice over the phone announces: "This is the Palestine press. We have a news bulletin for you." This may be the first word of a violent demonstration, a firebomb attack or the shooting of an Arab protester.

The Arab-owned Palestine Press Service (PPS) receives its information through a network of reporters, freelancers and volunteers in the occupied territories, said Elias M. Zananiri, the PPS' managing director.

Organ The PPS regards itself as an organ of the Palestine nationalist movement, reflecting the opinion of Palestinians in the occupied territories. For a monthly subscription fee of several hundred dollars, the PPS provides telex news services to some Western embassies and

There is an important inference that Army-student confrontation almost automatically results in injury and death. in the same fashion, closures of universities are no longer regarded as exceptional measures: We: loudly protest the drastic measures taken by the military authorities in closing the university for three months."

There are a balf-dozen Arabic daily newspapers in East-Jerusalem and a smattering of weeklies, but without Arab-run radio stations in the occupied territories the PPS is virtually the only source of breaking news.

Our telephone tips are not to be taken for granted. We often have no time to double check because they concern hot events. If it comes from our reporters, we tend to go ahead." Zananiri said. "But over the years, we managed to establish our credibility,' The Israeli authorities clamped down on the PPS several years after its founding late in 1977 by Raimonda Tawil, a Palestinian attorney and political activist.

Detention

In 1982, the military censor banned publication of a PPS daily newsletter. The Al Awadh magazine cannot be distributed in the West Bank and Gaza Strip because the publishers have been unable to get a permit. In November, the Army ordered Radwan Abu Ayyash, editor of the Awdah Arabic version and head of the Arab Journalists Association, held in jail for six months without trial under an administrative detenour office but at the freedom of expression in general. It was a blow to the whole Palestinian press," Zananiri said.

Ibrahim Karaeen, the PPS' co-owner, has said the measure 'shows how much the Israeli authorities have become sensitive even to the press."

Two months ago, the PPS' telex service was subjected itemilitary censorship. A previous agreement with the telisor said the PPS would distribute uncensored material for the use of foreign reporters only, who would then submit their own stories to the military censorship:

"We also have a problem of access," Zananiri said. "Arab reporters can be detained if they cover a demonstration, and the Army would say they took part Others PPS sources include people who call us voluntarily or taxi drivers who drive from one Palestinian village to another," he said. Zananiri said that such information can become distorted by rumours.

The recent riots, for instance, were sparked after rumours that the deaths of four Arabs struck by an Israeli military truck on Dec 8 was a deliberate act of revenge for the stabbing death of an Israeli businessman. "A couple of days ago, I got an anonymous phone call, and this person told me that two people were shot dead by Israeli troops in Gaza city." Zananiri said. "I ordered our reporter to check," he continued, "and he found that the sound of shooting came from fireworks that some children decided to put inside the tyres they set ablaze."

The markets at first ignored the warning, pushing the dollar to record post-war lows against the Japanese yen and West German mark.

The US currency has since rebounded, helped by massive dollar buying by major nations. but many foreign-exchange dealers remain scepuical that its strength will last.

Although officials expect Reagan and Takeshita to reaffirm the importance of a stable dollar, they played down the possibility of the two leaders spelling out specific steps to achieve that

Rebound

"I don't think there will be any surprises," a senior Finance Ministry official said in a telephone interview.

Top Japanese business leaders urged Takeshita on Tuesday to come up with concrete ways to stabilise the dollar when he meets Reagan next week.

But the Finance Ministry official said the dollar's rebound from post-war lows of 120.45 yen on Monday removed the need for any new specific pact.

Foreign Ministry officials indicated that Takeshita will go to the United States prepared to make concessions in three areas of interest to Washington. One official said Japan hoped to come up with specific ways to help foreign companies gain a greater share of governmentfunded construction contracts before Takeshita leaves for Washington.

The US Congress has voted to retaliate against Japan because it believes foreign companies have been shut out of its public construction market.

Another official said Takeshita was likely to present a plan to Reagan for Tokyo to shoulder a greater share of the costs of US military bases in Japan.

A senior Agriculture Ministry official said on Wednesday that Japan would accept in principle a ruling by the world trade body GATT that it scrap import quotas on 10 farm products.

But under a deal worked out with the United States, it will maintain quotas on two of the - starch and products evaporated milk — for the time being, he said.

Allegations Meanwhile, Japan's Finance Ministry wants tighter controls on insider trading in securities.

"The definition (of insider trading) is very vague and guilt is difficult to determine," Kazumoto Suzuki, director of the ministry's stock-dealing inspection division, said in an

He said the ministry hoped to finish a draft revision of the law next month to be presented to Parliament.

Late last year the Osaka Stock Exchange probed allegations that banks, securities houses and company executives had engaged in insider trading of shares of Tateho Chemical Industries shortly before Tateho disclosed huge losses from bond market investments.

The probe found no evidence of insider trading that would be covered by the existing law although the exchange said questionable trading had occurred.

Market experts said the globalisation of stock markets and greater participation by foreign investors and brokerages in the Tokyo market have boosted pressure on Japan to tighten its rules.

Specific prohibitions on insider trading, transactions based on corporate information not available to the public, apply company executives and shareholders with more than 10 per cent of a company's shares.

"The possibility of trading on

He said possible legal revisions to be discussed at a Finance Ministry Advisory Committee meeting included:

Expanding the definition of insiders to include all company employees and people or firms with long-term ties to a company, such as lawyers, accountants, underwriters and banks Creating some restrictions on trading on privileged information obtained by securities analysts and journalists

Restoring a clause requiring company directors and major shareholders to report holdings in their companies and all transactions in that company's stock.

No plan to revalue currency: Hong Kong

HONG KONG, Jan 8, (Reuter): A senior Hong Kong official said yesterday the British colony would not revalue its currency despite renewed pressure from the United States. Secretary of Monetary Affairs David Nendick said in a radio interview that the currency's peg of 7.8 Hong Kong dollars to one US dollar would stay. US Senator Lloyd Bentsen, a Texas Democrat and chairman of the powerful Finance Committee, on Wednesday urged Hong Kong to help the United States reduce its huge trade deficit by revaluing the currency. Nendick said Bentsen was "given a clear message" during meetings with senior officials the link would not be adjusted. The Hong Kong dollar has been pegged to the US dollar since 1983 when fears over the colony's political future sent the currency into a tailspin. Revaluing the Hong Kong dollar would make the colony's exports less competitive. But the government had adamantly refused to change the peg, saying it was needed to maintain political confidence in the colony which reverts to Chinese rule in 1997. In a related move to protect the peg and discourage currency speculation, the Hong Kong Association of Bank said it met to consider imposing negative interest rates, or fees on big bank deposits. An associa-tion spokesman said no action would be taken immediately but a technical group would study ways to impose negative rates, which would discourage speculators from shifting funds into Hong Kong

Moscow in secret grain talks with America

LONDON, Jan 8, (Reuter): Soviet and US grain officials held a secret meeting here on Wednesday and probably discussed extending Soviet purchases of American grain, London traders said yesterday. The Soviet Union, the world's biggest grain buyer, called for the surprise talks with the United States, which is the biggest exporter, and asked for them to be kept secret, diplomats and traders told Reuters. A US official in Washington, asked to comment on the talks, said they were largely exploratory. Grain traders said the talks probably covered future Soviet purchases of US subsidised grain and the possible extension of a five-year grain agreement between the two countries. But the Washington official told Reuters the meeting was very preliminary. "You won't find any agreement coming out of this (on) the LTA (long term grains agreement)," he said. "We are still very much a long ways away from announcing anything." Under a controversial but effective US export subsidy programme, American grain traders sell Moscow wheat at reduced prices, and the US government supplements the exporters with surplus grain from govern-ment stocks. For 10 years a cornerstone of US-Soviet trade, the current five-year pact expires on September 30, and US and Soviet officials have announced that a meeting would be held early this year to decide the future of the agreement. Oleg Klimov, recently-appointed head of the Soviet grain buying agency Exportableb, and Tom Kay, head of the US Agriculture Department's Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS), attended the London meeting, traders and diplomats said. US embassy and Soviet officials in London declined to comment on what took place. The mexpected and hastily-arranged talks took place on Wednesday morning, after officials from Washington and Moscow flew into London on Tuesday. US officials flew back to Washington early on Wednesday afternoon, traders said. The Soviet party also met separately with several exporters here, they added. Oil futures continue upward movement

NEW YORK, Jan 8, (Opecna): Crude oil futures posted modest gains on Tuesday on 'carry-over' buying from Monday when prices of all energy contracts soured on reports of a squeeze in London's cash market for North Sea Brent. With no further details of the squeeze available, futures traders in West Texas Intermediate, the US benchmarker, appeared to be marking time, according to Steven Errera, president of Energy Futures Inc. Errera said: "Just before the bolidays, it appears that a number of traders who had sold cargoes on North Sea Brent in London's cash market were suddenly unable, for reasons that are still not clear, to secure and deliver sufficient quantities of crude without sending prices skywards." Errera said that while traders in New York's crude futures market who sold short were not caught in a squeeze of the classic kind, the surge in recent sessions spurred many to offset their losing short positions and equivalent number of purchases, a major factor in Monday's sharp rise. The London cash market trades cargoes of North Sea Brent, each consisting of roughly 600,000 barrels. Tuesday's close of the New York Mercantile Exchange (NYMEX) found short February oil delivery up by 16 cents a barrel at $17.85, the same contract which jumped by 99 cents Monday. Meanwhile, spot February heating oil futures rose by 83 hundredths of a cent a gallon to 53,59 cents. This contract had shot up by 2.77 cents on Monday. March heating oil contracts rose by 1.12 cents a gallon to 50.85 cents in expectation of a continuation of the current cold wave in many parts of the United States.

Plan approved to cut productive farm land

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Jan 8, (AP): The European Economic Community's executive office has approved a plan for paying farmers to keep land out of production, a spokesman said yesterday. The plan, considered a crucial element in a controversial package of farm policy reforms, will be submitted to the member governments for approval, said Michael Berendt, an EEC commission spokesman. He said there were no plans to release details of the proposal before it is presented to the national governments. He declined to say why. Agriculture ministers of the 12 EEC member countries are to discuss the plan at a meeting in Brussels on Jan 18. If approved, the proposal could ease the way to agreement on a series of key EEC financial and agricultural reforms to be debated by the EEC heads of government at a special summit meeting on Feb 11 in Brussels. The idea of naying farmers to keep land out of production was discussed at the last summit, in Copenhagen last month, at the insistence of West Germany. No agreement was reached, but the Bonn government said inclusion of a "set-aside" programme for farmers was a precondition for full agreement on a broad reform of the EEC's

World Bank loan to Uganda

KAMPALA, Jan 8. (Reuter): The World Bank says it is lending Uganda $10 million to help the East African country fight AIDS. Resident representative Grant Slade told reporters on Monday that a World Bank delegation would visit Uganda later this month to identify specific programmes to be supported by the loan, being made on easy terms and repayable over 40 years.

Last May, a conference of international donors pledged $16 million to belp the Ugandan government set up a five-year programme to control Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, but Slade said more money was needed. "We in the World Bank feel that despite the recent pledges by an international conference in Kampala last year on AIDS, there is still considerable lack of resources ... to control ALDS," he said. Slade said the bank delegation would visit Rakai district in southeast Uganda where AIDS was first detected in the country nearly five years ago and where there are now many cases. Uganda has more than 1,800 confirmed AIDS victims.

Ricoh develops colour picture telephone

TOKYO, Jan 8, (Reuter): Ricoh, a leading Japanese maker of copiers and facsimile machines, has developed a device capable of sending still colour pictures over ordinary telephone lines, a spokesman said yesterday.

Ricoh's colour telephone is the first to use facsimile and data compression technology, enabling it to send colour images faster than black and white pictures transmitted by machines marketed by Sony, Mitsubishi and other companies, he said.

Leapfrogged

Ricoh has leapfrogged competitors with its entry to the field, but the race is far from over, industry analysts said.

'It's still too early. The idea is to get a moving picture of the other person," said Darrel Whit-

Venezuela, Latin America's fourth-largest debtor nation, is studying a way to reduce its debt similar to a plan that Mexico recently forged with the United States, Caracas newspapers reported yesterday. The El Universal and El Nacional newspapers both said Venezuelan officials were looking at a plan to buy back part of the nation's $33.2 billion of foreign debt at a discount, using a new issue of debt bonds as payment, as in the Mexican plan.

On December 31 Mexico agreed to buy about $10 billion of so-called zero-coupon bonds from the US Treasury for about $1.8 billion. The bonds do not pay interest and so are bought at a deep discount.

Indonesia urges global economic solutions and foreign bankers said in dis-

JAKARTA, Jan 8, (Reuter): President Suharto called for global solutions to world economic problems at a banquet for visiting Italian Prime Minister Giovanni Goria after unveiling a national budget w by overseas debt.

"In developing our nation we are aware of the heavy burden we must carry. But we are also aware that we need cooperation and aid from outside the country to ensure that development continues," he said on Wednesday.

"Foreign aid and investment, in fact, has stimulated our economic growth," Suharto said. Reliance Indonesia's reliance on foreign funds has become a hot topic of debate since the President on Tuesday presented his debtladen state budget for the next fiscal year.

The plan earmarks one third of total expenditures to pay foreign debts and shows a quarter of total state revenues are to be derived from foreign aid. Some Indonesian economists cussions with foreign correspondents on Wednesday that Jakarta can make a good case for restructuring its government debt of $35.19 billion.

nesday pledged not to join the queue of Third World countries seeking to reschedule their debt, saying it will have a chilling effect on new foreign investment and concessionary lending from overseas banks.

Exports

Indonesia, the only Asian member of the Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries, instead is counting on boosting exports outside the petroleum sector by 20 per cent to help pay this year's $6 billion bill to its foreign creditors.

Indonesia is hosting an Asia-Pacific trade conference on Bali Island opening today and is expected to push for more market access to prevent a slowdown in world trade, stemming from the aftermath of October's global stock market crash.

Bonn urged to stimulate economy

BONN, West Germany, Jan 8, (AP): A US official said yesterday that West Germany should take further steps to stimulate its economy as a means of helping to ward off a possible worldwide recession.

"We think there is room for more economic growth in Germany," said a high-ranking Bonn-based official, who spoke on condition of anonymity. Moved up In an effort to boost economic growth, West Germany in December moved up part of its 1990 tax cuts to 1988 and announced an investment incentive programme of 21 billion marks ($13 billion) of cheap loans to communities and busin-

As further measures West Germany should consider, the US official suggested the following: further accelerating tax cuts; deregulation, including liberalising the country's stringentlyregulated shopping hours; and 'steps to improve labour

Earlier yesterday, Finance Minister Gerhard Stoltenberg said he would not heed calls to stimulate the economy by moving forward or increasing planned tax cuts.

"We cannot make any decisions that would further increase the (West German 1988 budget) deficit," he said.

ced that the 1988 budget deficit would be substantially higher than predicted, mostly because of the fall of the US dollar. The government calculates into the budget the profits from the Deutsche Bundesbank, or central bank. The Bundesbank has had to intervene massively to bolster the dollar recently, which affects the bank's profits. Stoltenberg has said he expects West Germany' economy to grow between 1.5 per cent and two per cent this year. Referring to that estimate, the US official said: "We think that is too low. We want to see more growth ... because we think it will have a ripple effect on Europe as a whole.

JAKARTA, Jan 8, (Reuter): A senior world trade official warned yesterday against a retreat into protectionism as a response to gyrations on the world currency market and the crash in global stock prices.

Truck servicing centre planned

PARIS, Jan 8, (Opecna): Kuwait Petroleum International (KPI), the European subsidiary of Kuwait Petroleum Corporation (KPC), will open its truck servicing centre in France this April, says a report in the Les Echos newspaper.

The centre in the southeastern part of the country, which will exclusively cater for trucks, is to be located on a highway between the cities of Dijon and Lyon.

KPI has so far set up 135 truck centres throughout Europe under the International Diesel Service (IDS) trade mark, 35 of them in Scandinavia.

ACCOUNT MIXED BUT TRADING THIN LONDON, JAN 8 - SHARES WERE MIXED TO EASIER AS THE MARKET ENDED THE LONG THREE-WEEK HOLIDAY ACCOUNT PERIOD, DEALERS SAID. LATE IN THE DAY, PRICES MOSTLY TRACKED WALL STREET WHICH TURNED LOWER AS THE DOLLAR SLIPPED. EARLIER, THE U.S. CURRENCY WAS HIT BY A WASHINGTON POST

REPORT THAT THE 1989 U.S. BUDGET DEFICIT HAD BEEN UNDERESTIMATED BY OVER 30 BILLON DLRS. THE DOLLAR SHOWED LITTLE REACTION TO BETTER THAN EXPECTED U.S. EMPLOYMENT DATA FOR DECEMBER.

AT 1530 GMT, THE FTSE 100 INDEX STOOD 2.4 POINTS LOWER AT 1,784.8 WITH DEALERS SAYING BUYING FOR THE NEW ACCOUNT HAD LIMITED THE MARKET'S DECLINE.

STOCKS HAD OPENED BRIGHTLY, BUOYED BY THE DOLLAR'S EARLY GAINS AND A FOURTH STRAIGHT WALL STREET RISE BUT RENEWED DOLLAR LITTERS SOON HAD PRICES RETREATING.

ONE DEALER SAID, "THESE REACTIONS TO THE DOLLAR'S UPS AND DOWNS UNDERLINE THE FACT THAT THE MARKET IS STILL FRAGILE. NEXT WEEK'S U.S. TRADE FIGURES ARE THE NEXT REAL TEST."

NEXT FRIDAY SEES THE RELEASE OF U.S. TRADE DATA FOR NOVEMBER WITH MOST FORECASTERS LOOKING FOR A TRADE GAP OF BETWEEN 14 AND 15 BILLON DLRS AFTER OCTOBER'S MASSIVE 17.6 BILLION. FEARS ARE RISING THAT A DEFICIT OF OVER 15 BILLION DLRS WILL SLAM THE DOLLAR WHICH COULD BRING FURTHER SHARP FALLS IN STOCKS.

London Gold

LONDON, JAN 8 - GOLD BULLION FINISHED AT 482.00/482.50 DLRS AN OUNCE, SLIGHTLY DOWN FROM ITS AFTERNOON FIX AT 483.90 AND THURSDAY'S CLOSE OF 483.25/483.75.

AN EARLIER RALLY AFTER THE DOLLAR SLIPPED FROM ITS OPENING HIGHS FAILED TO HOLD AS MARKET OPERATORS SQUARED THEIR POSITIONS AHEAD OF THE WEEKEND, DEALERS SAID.

THE MARKET HAD SQUEEZED OUT MORNING SHORTS AS THE U.S. CURRENCY FELL FOLLOWING A MASHINGTON POST REPORT THAT THE U.S. 1989 BUDGET DEFICIT COULD OVERSHOOT THE GRAMM-RUDMAN LIMIT BY 31 BILLION DLRS, THEY SAID.

London Money Market

LONDON, JAN 8 - MONEY RATES ENDED UP TO 1/8 POINT HIGHER POLLOWING YESTERDAY'S SUGGESTIONS BY THE GOVERNOR OF THE BANK OF ENGLAND THAT INFLATIONARY PRESSURES HIGHT BE REEMERGING IN THE

U.K. ECONONY GOVERNOR ROBIN LEIGH-PEMBERTON SAID THE ECONOMY DID NOT APPEAR ON PRESENT DATA TO HAVE BEEN AFFECTED BY THE FINANCIAL CRASH LAST OCTOBER.

HE SAID GROWTH IN DOMESTIC DEMAND BEFORE THEN WAS "UNSUSTAINABLY RAPID", CONFIRMING MARKET WORRIES THAT A RISE IN RATES MAY BE ENGINEERED TO DAMPEN DOWN THE ECONOMY. THESE FEARS HAVE FORCED RATES UP AS MUCH AS 1/4 POINT THIS WEEK.

Wall Street Market Report

NEW YORK, Jan 8: Wall Street stocks showed substantial losses after falling steadily through the morning after a briefly higher opening. Analysts said profit-taking was encouraged by a fall in dollar and US treasuries after several days of gains. They noted that high-techs led the drop.

The Dow 30 index was off 35 at 2016 and declining issues led gainers by three-to-one. Trading was fairly active.

Among the high-techs, Cray was down 2-3/4 at 76-3/8. Analysts said profit growth will slow at Cray this year due to delay in introduction of its supercomputer, considered the key to its earnings future.

Tokyo Stock Market Report

TOKYO STOCKS CLOSE UP, OFF HIGHS IN ROBUST TRADE TOKYO, JAN 8 - SHARE PRICES CLOSED FIRM BUT OFF THEIR HIGHS IN ACTIVE TRADE AS CONTINUED BULLISH SENTIMENT COLLIDED WITH PROFIT-TAKING AT A NEAR-TERM CEILING, BROKERS SAID.

"THE MARKET THEME HAS BEEN SET," SAID A BROKER AT ONE OF THE FOUR BIG JAPANESE BROKERAGES, REFERRING TO THE MARKET'S APPARENT NIABILITY TO RISE THROUGH THE 23,000-POINT ATTEMPT OF THE NIKKEI AVERAGE ROSE 80.43 POINTS, OR 0.35 PCT, TO

22,872.56 AFTER HITTING A MORNING HIGH OF 22,962.46. THE INDEX INCRED UP 1.63 POINTS ON THURSDAY. ADVANCES LED DECLINES FIVE TO FOUR IN TURNOVER OF 950 MLN

SHARES AGAINST ONE BILLION ON THURSDAY.

PHARMACEUTICAL, PULP/PAPER, RAILWAY/BUS, AIRLINE, FISHERY, MACHINERY, SERVICE, SHIPBUILDING, PRECISION INSTRUMENTS AND SOME MANUFACTURING ISSUES LED THE ADVANCE.

NEWS THAT SANKYO SAID IT HAS DEVELOPED A DRUG WHICH LOWERS THE CHOLESTEROL CONTENT OF BLOOD VESSELS BY ABOUT 25 PCT AFFECTED COMPANY STOCK, BROKERS SAID. SANKYO SHARE PRICES CLOSED UP 210 YEN AT 1,930. THE DRUG, CS514, IS LIKELY TO BE AVAILABLE ON THE JAPANESE MARKET BY THE END OF NEXT YEAR, A COMPANY SPOKESMAN SAID. RUMOURS MAY HAVE BEEN BEHIND THE STRENGTH OF THE PAPER/PULP SECTOR TODAY, SOME BROKERS SAID.

THERE WAS SPECULATION THAT YEN CURRENCY DENOMINATIONS WILL BE CHANGED, RESULTING IN THE PRINTING OF NEW NOTES, WRICH PROMPTED BUYING OF PAPER AND PULP STOCKS, BROKERS SAID. THEY ADDED THAT THIS RUMOUR ARISES SEVERAL TIMES A YEAR.

THE MINISTRY OF FINANCE DENIED THE RUMOUR. THIS SECTOR MAY HAVE ALSO BEEN AFFECTED BY CONCERN ABOUT THE EMPEROR'S HEALTH CURRENT SINCE HIS ILLNESS LAST YEAR. BROKERS SAID. THE ASCENSION OF A NEW EMPEROR WOULD CALL FOR PRINTING OF NEW CALENDARS.

INSURANCE, SECURITIES HOUSE, CREDIT/LEASE, ROLLING STOCK, BANK, REAL ESTATE, RUBBER AND CONSTRUCTION SHARES FELL.

Nomura Securities

WEEKLY FORECAST WEEK OF JAN. 4 - 8 INVESTMENT ENVIRONMENT IMPROVED THROUGH END OF DECEMBER, WITH DROPPING SPOT OIL AND CRB PRICES RELIEVING INFLATION FEARS AND BRINGING DOWN INTEREST RATES. LOONING BUDGET DEFICIT HAS BEEN ADDRESSED AND LATEST INF CUTS SHOULD LEAD TO LOWER DEFENSE EXP. AND GREATER EAST-MEST TRADE. LOWER INTEREST RATES AND STRONG DOMESTIC DEMAND AMONG THE SURPLUS COUNTRIES ALSO POSITIVE. THE TOKYO MARKET TOO WILL BENEFIT FROM THESE POSITIVE INVESTMENT CONDITIONS. THOUGH THE NIKKEI STILL TRADES IN 22500-23000 RANGE, ENERGY BUILDS ON STRONGER VOLUMES AND DECLINING INTEREST RATES. | FOREIGN FUND MANAGERS MOVED TO THE SIDELINES.

KD deposits surge

OVERNIGHT Kuwaiti dinar deposits surged as high as 40 per cent on Thursday as a wave of dollar buying drained liquidity and sent banks scrambling for Dealers said overnight was taken by banks at 40 per cent, while tomorrow-next and spotnext funds were indicated at 40, 30 per cent after levels of about 8-1/2 per cent on Wednesday.

One trader said: "the market has completely dried up."

Liquidity had started to drain on Wednesday as the Central Bank entered the market to buy one-month funds at 5-1/2 per cent, but dealers said the surge to 40 per cent was sparked by heavy corporate buying of dollars against the Kuwaiti dinar.

Surge The surge in short-dated funds pulled other maturities higher, reversing the very liquid trend which had pushed fixed rates down as low as 3-1/2 per cent at the end of 1987.

Traders quoted one-month deposits rising to 8-1/2, 5-1/2 per cent from 7-1/2, 5-1/2 on Wednesday, while three and sixmonth funds were marked 1/2 point firmer at 7-1/2, 5-1/2.

The Central Bank's dinar

exchange rate was softer at 0.27406/16 to the dollar after 0.27314/24 on Wednesday. Commercial banks quoted the dinar at 0.27430/40. Meanwhile, Saudi riyal interbank deposit displayed a firmer tone in an active market on Thursday as banks in the kingdom and offshore centre Bahrain started to build up dollar positions. Slide Dealers said the spot rival eased to 3.7501/11 to the dollar after trading recently firmer than its 3.75 parity, often around the 3.7490 level. The riyal's slide mirrored the dollar's sharp recovery on international, currency markets.

Spot-next funds were marked higher to four, 3-1/2 per cent from rates around 2-3/4 per cent on Wednesday, although liquidity in the kingdom money market remained relatively high. Period funds were firmer to steady against Wednesday levels, with dealers reporting heavy trading volume in the one-week and one-month maturities.

One-month rose 1/8 point to 4-5/8, 3/8 per cent, while threemonths was little changed at 5-1/ 2, 3/8 and six-months steady at 6-3/8, 1/4.

Chamber chairmen to meet

RIYADH, Jan 8, (GNA): A committee of GCC chairmen of chambers of commerce and industry will meet in Riyadh on Jan 20 with officials of the GCC secretariat-general to discuss an evaluation report on the progress of steps to implement the unified economic agreement.

They will also discuss the project for constructing a centre for commercial arbitration as agreed earlier by commerce mini-

Lebanese inflation hits record

BEIRUT, Jan 8, (Reuter): The inflation rate in Lebanon, battered by nearly 13 years of civil war, reached a record 730 per cent in 1987, figures from the General Labour Federation said

The year-on-year rate was up from 104 per cent in 1986, the previous record.

Officials at the federation, Lebanon's trade union umbrella body, told Reuters they expected the news to fuel a further round in the inflation spiral. No goverment figures have been issued

Tackle

The skyrocketing cost of living prompted unprecedented worker protests last year in the country of three million people.

The federation launched an indefinite general strike in November but called it off after five days when the government pledged to tackle a key grievance - the decline of the Lebanese

Dollar falls on new budget worries

report that the US federal budget deficit may swell far above the legal limit next year halted the dollar's four-day advance today and pounded stocks on Wall

The key Dow Jones industrial average, after rising 113 points this week, was off 29 points at 2,022 after just over an hour of trading as investors were disheartened by fresh budget worries. Share pricesedged lower in London as well.

The massive budget deficit, a tremendous drag on the US economy, was a major contributor to the stock market's loss of confidence in October. The market did not begin to recover until Congress and the White House agreed in November to reduce the deficit.

Confidence The dollar opened higher in New York on confidence that the leading industrial nations would support it, but dealers said it was auickly undermined by a report in the Washington Post that said the 1989 budget could rise $31 billion above the legal limit if the economy performs as private forecasters are predicting. dealers said.

The dollar was quoted at 1.6520 marks at 10am (1500 GMT) in New York, down from yesterday's close of 1.6565. It fell to 129.35 Japanese yen from 130.15.

A decline in the US jobless rate to 5.8 per cent in December from 5.9 per cent the previous month battered US government bond

Lifting

"It's a sign the economy is going along OK, and if it's going along pretty well, the Fed is not under any pressure to lower (interest) rates to keep the economy growing," a bond trader benchmark 30-year treasury bond was down more than two points in early trading. lifting its yield to 9.15 per cent from 8.95 per cent at yesterday's

The credit market was also undermined by the dollar's retreat after four days of gains. The dollar had added more than 10 pfennigs from its all-time low against the West German mark on Monday on the view that the leading industrial nations were committed to lifting the troubled Involved Johnson's comments eased foreign exchange dealers' fears that central banks may intervene and sell dollars if the US currency rises too quickly.

Johnson said economic fundamentals support a stronger dollar. He cautioned the currency markets; "We are involved in a joint exchange rate intervention policy to penalise speculators who think there is a one-way bet on the dollar."

For weeks and months, economists have said the dollar cannot rise unless the US trade performance improves. Dealers say the US November trade data, due next Friday, should help set the tone for the currency.

Prospects

Gold prices rose on prospects of continuing large US budget deficits. The February contract rose $1.60 to $484.70 on the commodity exchange in New York.

In London, bullion slumped $4 to a fix of $479.50 on the dollar's strength earlier in the trading day.

Share prices fell in London as investors were discouraged by the falls in the US financial markets. The Financial Times-Stock Exchange index was down 3.4 points in late trading at 1,783.8. But shares were higher in

The rates also are moving targets, and different people could use different rates, say later rates in New York, to make their calculations. Or one could decide to calculate the decline over a different time period, say from before the major industrial nations decided in New York in September 1985 to push then-strong dollar downward. These would yield different results, in the latter case, a much sharper decline than in 1987

Costly

In addition, these rates do not reflect the true cost to consumers, who find more costly rates when they go to the bank or a dealer to change money for vacations and also must pay fees for the service.

Other problems are that these rates aren't trade-weighted, or adjusted to take into account the amount of trade the United States has with each country, and they aren't adjusted for inflation.

The Federal Reserve Board in Washington publishes daily a widely quoted, trade-weighted index of the dollar's value against 10 major foreign currencies.

This index dropped 17.6 per cent to 85.52 on Dec 31 from 103.79 on Dec 31, 1986. Measure

The Fed's index, which is not inflation-adjusted, includes the currencies of the group of 10 nations: West Germany, Japan, France, Britain, Italy, Canada, The Netherlands, Belgium, Sweden and Switzerland. The group actually is made up

TOKYO, Jan 8, (AP): Traders on the Tokyo Stock Exchange say its limits on daily price changes worked well to minimise damage from October's stock crash, but some complain that the regulations also restrict the market's responsiveness.

"Most people believe that the limits on price movements have a good moderating effect on the market, said Kunihiro Ono, spokesman for Nomura Securities, Japan's largest brok-

(Reuter): The US civilian unemployment rate fell to 5.8 per cent in December from 5.9 per cent in November, the Labour Department said today. The government also said that 326.000 non-farm jobs were created last month, including 97,000 in goods-producing industries. In November, nonfarm payrolls rose by 263,000. Economists said the statistics were further evidence that the economy ended the year on a surprisingly strong note and that fears of a swift slowdown in spending and production because of October's stock market crash were largely misplaced. Lowest

The December unemployment rate of 5.8 per cent, which was the lowest since July 1979, was down from 6.7 per cent in December 1986, the Department said.

Manufacturing employment increased by 40,000 to 19.38 million as American exporters continued to enjoy booming business thanks to the decline in the dollar.

More jobs in machinery and electrical equipment industries accounted for half the increase in manufacturing employment. The service industries were included 35,000 new jobs in business services and 400,000 in health services.

- Flat

- But retail trade employment was tlat for a second consecutive month, the Department said, as jobs in general merchandise stores showed a seasonally adjusted decline of 35,000 the October-December period.

There were a total 18.42 million jobs in the retail trade in December, down 4,000 from the November total. Department stores cut back on the number of Christmas workers this year, fearing that consumers would not be confident enough to spend freely after the stock market's battering. In the event, retailers reported modest sales gains last month.

The overall workweek fell to 34.7 hours in December from 34.9 hours in November.

Labour force

Is Jagger finished?

Rocking legend Mick Jagger is facing the toughest battle of his career. His second solo single Let's Work hasn't worked and he's beginning to wonder whether he'll ever have a hit again.

considerations. In his private life he is now happier than he has ever been. He and his livein-lover Jerry Hall, the leggy. Texan model, are getting on better than ever before.

They also have two young children Elizabeth and James and Mick has become a devoted father. Instead of jam-ming in the recording studio as he once did, these days he is more at home playing with the

Career

Meanwhile in his career things haven't gone quite as smoothly as he would have liked. There has been a much publicised bust-up between Jagger and the rest of the Rolling Stones over his solo recordings. Then they said they wanted to carry on touring, whereas he said he had had enough.

And there have been other difficult distractions ... such as Jerry's harrowing court case in Barbados on drugs charges. But Jagger, the eternal youngster, has come through it all smiling. He knows he certainly doesn't have to worry about The last United States tour

by the Rolling Stones made a staggering £30 million profit. Jagger's individual earnings from record royalties alone is around £5 million a year. But financial security ...

Jerry's income could almost rival that of Mick's - still hasn't let pop's most famous partnership tie the knot. Mick's cagey reply to question is a vague: Maybe we will, maybe we won't". While Jerry seems even more certain they will carry on as they are.

She says: "There's no chance of a wedding now. I've been living with Mick for 10 years. Our anniversary was months ago. I told him if he didn't marry me by then. I would never, never marry him."

Jerry as a business woman as well as a mistress and mother. He once said of her: "One of the reasons I think she is marvellous is that she has a satisfying job she enjoys doing, and she is not just fittering her life away with frivolities. She owns a ranch, breeds horses and organises everything her-

Relationship

fronically, it was the ranch that almost ended Mick's Through it, she met 47-year-old Robert Sangster, who runs a £500 million world-wide blood-stock empire. With Jagger dating several girls, the impatient Jerry transferred her attentions to the multi-millionaire and teased Mick with the quote: "Robert could buy out the Rolling Stones ten times over."

Mick quickly came to heel after that. Now he and Jerry are rarely apart from each, but he is quick to put the stories of their torrid sex life into perspective.

He explains: "Well, you've got to take all those things with a pinch of salt. How many guys do you know who turn up at home every night to find the wife in suspenders and stockings. But it's nice occasion-

One of the biggest changes in Jagger's life came with the birth of his children Elizabeth Scarlett, now 3, and James aged

Now, with his former hellraising days behind him, he The birth of kids is bound to change your attitudes. "When I was about 20 I'd have had kids and then disappeared on the road without thinking. Now I can see that would be a really crass thing to "I'd never dream of turning round to Jerry and the kids and saying: 'Right, I'm off ... I'll see you in a year'. It would sadden me to turn up one day and see them grown up. There's no way I'm going to let that happen.

"Having a young family has to make a bit of difference to you. If the Stones did go on tour. I'd make sure there were arrangements to see the kids wherever we played.

"You have to take children - especially very young ones into account in everything you do. They can't dominate your life, but they certainly become a big part of it."

And he adds: "I suppose that's the great thing about becoming a dad -- you become very caring."

Despite the ever increasing effort he puts in to staying at the top. Mick seems unlikely to stop recording. For even though he's a proud dad, the family man says he's still a rock 'n' roll gypsy at heart and it will takemore than a couple of flops to make him think of retirement.

That shows in their current lifestyle. Although he and Jerry have based themselves in New York for the past few years

Mick says:" It's not really home. I don't know of many musicians who have any place they can really call home."

In Mick and Jerry's case they have a choice of four. They own a £1.5 million 17th century chateau in France. A £2 million-plus, four storey-town house on Manhattan's fashionable West Side. A ranch 50 miles from Dallas, Jerry's home town, and a lavish home on the Caribbean island of Mustique. Interesting

It was near there, while holidaying in Barbados, that Jerry was arrested earlier this year, charged of drug smuggling. For a moment all thoughts of music were abandoned as Mick fought to have his mistress freed.

Suddenly the man, who now speaks with a soft, cultured voice and reads the Financial Times to check his investments, showed how much he had changed. He strolled arm in arm along the beach with Jerry and gave her the moral support any woman would have been proud of. He slammed the police and vowed never to return to the

But then Jagger's private life has always been as interesting to the world's press as his career. When he divorced from his first wife Bianca, with whom he had a daughter Jade. it made more headlines than any of his number ones. Everyone wanted to know exactly what was going on when Margaret Trudeau, wife of the former Canadian Prime Minister, was chasing him.

He made the news again with actress Marsha Hunt. She gave him his first daughter, who he still supports with maintenance of £750 a month.

But now it is his career which is under scrutiny. He could always go back to acting. He starred in the movie Ned Kelly and received some good reviews. But the chances are Jagger

WILL be back in the charts .. and soon. After more than 20 years in the business he is not going to give up quickly.

Pet Shop Boys top UK charts

LONDON. (AP): The Pet Shop Boys captured the No. I slot in the British pop singles chart with "Always On My Mind." Meanwhile, Rick Astley's When I Fall In Love plunged from first to ninth place, and a rerelease of the 1950s version of the same ballad by the late Nat King Cole bowed in at No. 4.

Rounding out the top five were the Irish folk punk band the Pogues and Kirsty McColl with Fairytale of New York, up eight places to No. 2 The American new wave singer Belinda Carlisle, whose Heaven is A Place On Earth, leaped from 33rd to third and Alison Moyet, who moved up wo places to No 5 with Love specifically a 4-3-3-3 distribution. North decided that his good fivecard club suit merited a grand slam invitation. Five no trump was just that-it asked partner to bid six with a minimum and seven with a maximum. South obliged.

The play did not take long. Declarer cashed three top spades, discarding a heart from dummy. East sluffed a diamond. Next came the queen-king-ace of hearts. Dummy let go a club as East parted with another diamond. Finally, declarer cashed the ace-king of diamonds and ace of clubs, and he had all the information he needed.

He recalled that East had shown out on both the third spade and third heart. That meant West had started with six spades and four hearts, and he had followed to three rounds of minor-suit winners. Thus, all 13 of West's cards were known-he could not have another club. So declarer led the ten of clubs from dummy and ran it when East did not cover. It was then a simple are going about things the wrong matter to unblock the king of clubs, re-enter dummy with the queen of South's jump to three no trump diamonds and take the fulfilling

Shriver tames Lindqvist despite injury

SYDNEY, Jan 8, (Reuter): Top women's seed Pam Shriver made light of a groin injury to blast her way into the semitinals of the New South Wales Open tennis championship today.

The American was leading 3-0 in the first set against fifth-seeded Catarina Lindqvist of Sweden when she was forced to leave the court for treatment.

"Once I hurt it and had to get it strapped, I realised my strategy had to change. I just had to start blasting," Shriver said.

"I knew I had to serve well and volley well and attack all her serves that I could. I ended up playing a lot better than I would have the other way."

The groin strain is a worry for Shriver with the Australian Open starting next week. "It can mess me up for a week or so," she Shriver's semifinal opponent will be West German Claudia Kohde-Kilsch, the third seed, who ousted Japan's Etsuko Inoue 6-2 6-3.

Second-seeded Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia also had a comfortable passage into the last four, beating Hesther Witvoet of the Netherlands 6-2 6-2.

In the men's event, 1984 champion John Fitzgerald of Australia, who is determined to regain a place among the top 30 players in the world, routed South African Barry Moir 6-0 6l in less than an hour to reach the semifinals.

Navratilova outlasts Evert

GOLD COAST, Australia, Jan 8, (AP): Martina Navratilova beat fellow American Chris Evert 6-3, 7-6 (7-4) in exhibition play today at Sanctuary Cove. Navratilova took 1 hour, 45 minutes to outlast her rival in stifling heat and humidity.

Evert and Navratilova each face $20,000 in fines by the Women's International Tennis Association for playing in the exhibition at the new $270 million Sanctuary Cove resort. They said they decided to play in the exhibition because the court surface and balls are identical to those to be used at the Australian Open next week.

Provide The Open begins Monday at

"This is great preparation for Melbourne - and we are getting paid a lot more than $20,000 to be here," said Navratilova.

The Czech-born Navratilova praised the synthetic rebound ace court surface but blasted the South Korean-made Nassauten-nis balls. The Nassau balls will be used at the Seoul Olympics. She said, "the court rewards good shots, and it bounces true." But of the Nassau balls, Navratilova said: "They are very questionable. They fluff up and get very heavy. They shouldn't be

In the 17th minute, goalkeeper Rawat blocked a hard shot from Zainal Husain and the ball went to Mustapha whose shot hit an Indian player's leg and the umpire awarded the stroke. It was converted by Embaraj, who also scored the second goal two minutes later.

India hit back in the 41st minute when Pargat Singh's hard shot from a penalty corner was deflected to Balvinder Singh, who drove the ball home.

Substitute Gundeep Kumar equalised in the 59th minute when he pounced on a pass and scored with a powerful shot.

New Zealand outplayed Spain with breakaway raids and fine stickwork.

They went ahead in the ninth minute when skipper Peter Mishikimmin scored from a pass by Peter Daji, and increased the lead in the 23rd minute from a penalty stroke, awarded when Pervez Fernando squatted on the ball.

Ella changes sides to avoid facing Lillee

SYDNEY, Jan 8, (Reuter): Australia's Mark Ella could never be accused of cowardice during his glittering rugby union career.

But the prospect of facing Dennis Lillee on the cricket field has persuaded the former flyhalf that bravery will have to take a back seat this once.

Ella was expected to be in the aboriginal team he will manage on a tour of Britain in May when they play a warm-up game against a side captained by Australian Prime Minister Bob Hawke next Wednesday at

Manly, near Sydney. But when Ella, who retired three years ago, saw the name Lillee on the Prime Minister's team sheet he decided to switch

Spend

"When I saw who the PM had recruited. I had no hestitation in adding my name to his list," Ella said yesterday.

"Facing up to Dennis Lillee with Rod Marsh behind the stumps is not my idea of a fun way to spend a cricketing day. "Len Pascoe and Max Walker will also be firing them down and Ian Chappell, Gary Cosier and Ian Davis will certainly let the aboriginal bowlers know they're in a match," Ella said.

Ella is taking a 20-strong squad to Britain 120 years after an aboriginal team left on the first sporting tour by an Australian side.

Sillett puts his money on Coventry again

LONDON, Jan 8, (Reuter): Coventry City manager John Sillett, ignoring his club's dismal League performance this season, is so convinced his side will hold on to the English FA Cup that he is backing them with the bookmakers at 33-1.

"People say our win at Wembley last year was a flash in the pan but I don't believe it was a one-off," said Sillett, whose team begin their defence in the third round against Fourth Division Torquay tomorrow.

Coventry have not won a First Division match since October 3 but Sillett is not worried. "There is a different atmosphere in the club now that the Cup has come round again and Saturday's match could be just what we need to spark us off again," he said.

But Sillett must make do without central defender Trevor Peake, out with a foot injury, striker Keith Houchen, who has a chest infection, and injured midfielders Nick Pickering and Dean Emerson.

Influence

Ironically, it is the start of the pitches rather than the players which may influence several of tomorrow's matches.

Coventry's League home match against Norwich last Saturday was postponed because of a waterlogged pitch and ground staff have used 100 tons of sand trying to dry out the surface in time for this weekend.

First Division Tottenham, beaten 3-2 by Coventry in last year's Cup final, have been training on a synthetic pitch ready for their trip to Second Division Oldham and Queen's Park Rangers face problems at non-League Yeovil's steeply sloping

The FA Cup is the only domes tic honour to elude England goalkeeper Peter Shilton who hopes his Derby side can snap out of a bad spell to beat Chelsea in one of the few all-First Division clashes

West Indies edge past India

Effort

West Indies captain Viv Richards and team manager Jackie Hendricks were not available for comment, but the touring team were believed to be insisting that the match was an unofficial, fund-raising effort.

The dispute flared at the start of the game when Indian officials had to persuade their captain Ravi Shastri to toss after he discussed the status of the contest with Richards.

Shastri said that the match was not part of the official series. The game itself provided a nailbiting climax. India went into the final over needing six runs to overhaul West Indies' total of 196 scored off 48.3 overs after they had been put in on a

But tight bowling by paceman Patrick Patterson restricted Chetan Sharma and Sanjeev Sharma to just three runs and India finished on 194 for nine.

A middle-order collapse undermined India's chances after opener Krishnamachari Srikkanth had begun the innings with a flourish.

Mixing the orthodox and unorthodox, he struck 53 off 72 balls with five fours and a six before falling to Patterson. A 46-run fifth-wicket stand between Gus Logie and Carl Hooper had revived the West Indies innings after India's medium pace attack had reduced the touring team to 65 for four.

Logie was caught in the deep off spinner Arshad Ayub for 30 and Hooper fell after making the top score of 33, going for a big hit off the occasional bowling of Srikkanth.

England satisfied with Cup fixture dates

WARSAW, Jan 8, (Reuter): England's hopes of qualifying for the 1990 World Cup finals in Italy were enhanced yesterday when they, Poland, Sweden and Albania agreed on a provisional schedule for their European Group Two fixtures.

England, fearing a summer fixture with Sweden, an autumn trip to Albania or any fixture during September, emerged from a friendly three-hour meeting with all their hopes fulfilled.

England hoped to avoid Sweden in the summer because it is the English close season and Albania in the autumn because of the heat. In recent years, England have suffered several humiliating or heavy defeats in September.

'I think everyone is very satisfied with what has happened," said English Football Association secretary Ted Croker, "and I think we will qualify for the World Cup finals."

England's opening fixture will be at home to Sweden on October 19. Poland will entertain Albania

England, who failed to qualify for the 1974 finals when they were held 1-1 at home and lost away to eventual qualifiers Poland, will meet the Poles at Wembley Stadium, London, on June 3, 1989 and visit them in their final tie on October 11,

Only the group winners qualify automatically for the finals. The runners-up in the group will go through only if their record is one of the two best from the three European groups of four nations.

Group Two fixture schedule: 1988: Oct 19 - England v Sweden, Poland v Albania Nov 5 - Albania v Sweden 1989: March 8 — Albania v

April 26 — England v Albania May 7 — Sweden v Poland June 3 — England v Poland Sept 6 — Sweden v England Oct 8 — Sweden v Albania Oct 11 - Poland v England Oct 25 — Poland v Sweden Nov 15 - Albania v Poland

Aussies fight back to overcome Kiwis

MELBOURNE, Jan 8, (Reuter): Australia fought back from a wretched start in which they slumped to 39 for four, with Allan Border dismissed first ball, to beat New Zealand by six runs in a day-night World Series Cup match yesterday. Steve Waugh led the recovery by hitting 68, the top score of the 50 overs game, in addition to contributing a useful spell with his medium-pacers and captur-ing the wicket of Richard Hadlee at a crucial stage.

Waugh dismissed his fellow all-rounder with eight needed off the final two deliveries, so that New Zealand finished on 210 for nine in reply to Australia's 216 all out with two balls of their quota remaining.

Australia and New Zealand have each won two of their three matches in the triangular competition but the Australians head the standings with a better run rate. Sri Lanka have lost the first two of their eight qualifying

Australia, keen to avenge a one-run defeat by New Zealand in Perth on Sunday, could scarcely have made a more inauspicious start, with medium-pacer Stuart Gillespie proving their main tormentor by dismissing Geoff Marsh and Border with consecutive deliveries. A crowd of 61,316 then saw Waugh enhance his growing reputation by tilting the balance in half-century stands with Dean Jones and wicketkeeper Greg

Waugh, who completed his half century off 74 balls, and Jones (48) figured in an 88-run fifth-wicket partnership, while the all-rounder put on 65 in 71 balls for the sixth wicket with

Andrew Jones, who made 59, and Martin Crowe, with 37, seemed to be pushing New Zealand firmly towards success at 121 for two.

However, Australia wrested the initiative by seizing eight wickets for 67. Tony Dodemaide, whose telling effort brought him two for 25 in his 10 overs, including the vital wicket of Martin Crowe, and fellow fast bowler Craig McDermott did most of the damage.

Hadlee kept alive New Zealand's hopes until the last over when, having made 23, he lofted Waugh to deep mid-off where Peter Taylor held the

Starling to take on Ozaki

TOKYO, Jan 8, (AP): World Boxing Association welterweight champion Marlon Starling of the United States will make his first title defence against Japan's Fujio Ozaki in February, Ozaki's manager said yesterday.
The 12-round title fight will be held at Atlanta City, New Jersey, Feb 5, said manager Akihiko Honda.

It will be the first crack at a world title for the eighth-ranked Ozaki, who has a record of 21 victories, including 13 knockouts, against four defeats.

crushes Norman

ST HELIER, Jersey, Jan 8, (Reuter): Former world squash champion Jahangir Khan of Pakistan demolished New Zealander Ross Norman in exactly half an hour to lift the Jersey International Squash tournament yesterday. The Pakistani, who thrashed

Australian Tristan Nancarrow for the loss of just three points in Wednesday's 16-minute semifinal, yielded a mere four points to Norman, whose 29th birthday ended in a stinging 9-4 9-0 9-0 defeat. Norman had inflicted a rare defeat on Jahangir in the World Cup 15 months ago and the former world number one appeared to be in a minor spot of trouble

when he trailed 4-1 in the opening

But Jahangir, determined to regain the world title from teenage compatriot Jansher Khan – to whom he has lot on seven successive occasions—reeled off the next 26 points in a row for an impressive victory.

On Wednesday, Nancarrow was handicapped by an injury to his left knee received in his quarterfinal on Tuesday and Jahangir was ruthless in his execution. He took the first game in six minutes, going 8-0 up before Nancarrow scored his first point.

The second game also took six minutes as Nancarrow was left floundering by a succession of drives and drop shots.

The third game was even quicker, lasting only four minutes, as Jahangir swept to an easy 9-29-19-0 victory.
